- Sampling of various projects
- Upholding and developing contacts with representatives
- Support for all designs and projects
- Constant contact and exchange with the team
- Maintenance and organization of the material library
- Preparing material collages and material specifications

WHAT YOU BRING ALONG

- University degree in interior design or architecture or comparable studies
- Several professional experience with a focus on surfaces, material and sampling
- Good command of English is desirable
- Experienced in working with MS Office (Word, Excel, PowerPoint)
- Knowledge of CAD programs, preferably Vectorworks and Cinema 4D, is an advantage
- You are creative, team-minded and focus on feel as well as the interplay of materials

WE OFFER YOU

- An unlimited employment relationship and flexible working hours
- Participation in varied projects for renowned clients in Germany and abroad
- Collaboration with an interdisciplinary, open-minded and appreciative team of 25 colleagues at the Stuttgart and Hamburg locations, as well as double know-how at the top with the twin brothers Rolf and Cord Glantz
- Flat hierarchies and short decision-making paths
- Offers of further training and internal workshops on various topics, like, for instance, product design
- Regular massages in the office
- Fresh fruit basket

Your heart beats for materials and you love to share your expert knowledge with others? If so, we are looking forward to receiving your application with CV, certificates, portfolio and salary requirement by e-mail at info@geplan.de.
